

Currimundi Lake and its environs provide a range of low key recreational options for residents and visitors.

The network of walking, bike and canoe trails within the catchment provide access to all the beaches, conservation bushland areas, fore-shore parks and waterways in the area.

They also provide a quiet retreat for the contemplation of the natural environment. A local resident describes the tranquil environment thus

Not many people know about the quiet, native bushland corridors that hug Currimundi Creek.

There are no walls to restrict my view and no fences to stop me going forward. There is no ceiling to block out the sky. No one pushing me at an uncomfortable pace.

The sense of space around me and above me is magical. I have time to look out and look up without containment or constraint.

While it is rare and something one can't buy, this is not a costly pleasure. It is simply the heightened understanding that my psyche has tuned into the sights and sounds of nature and is experiencing an evolutionary comfort in its unhurried rhythm.

When visiting our reserves remember

- o All native wildlife and plants in our reserves are protected
- o Do not feed wildlife
- o Stay on the formal paths around the lake edge
- o Dispose of rubbish in the bins provided or take it home with you for disposal
- o Dogs are welcome in the reserves but should be on leash
- o Cyclists should allow adequate space for people walking along the paths in the area
- o Canoes and other watercraft should be launched from the designated canoe facilities, other watercraft should be launched from the boatramps provided
- o Use only designated resting stops as use of other areas can cause bank erosion
- o Take care and supervise children when using our canoe and lakeside paths
